GUARDSMEN TURN AN ARMORY INTO WONDERLAND OF GLEAMING LIGHTS FOR THEIR ANNUAL REUNION

PROTEST THEIR TAX PAYMENTS

Property Owners Carry on Attack Upon the Assessment.

Many Grounds Are Offered in Fight on Legality of Raise.

Oakland Office San Francisco Call, 1118 Broadway, Nov. 23.—The city Tax Collector's office is being flooded with protests filed by property owners who are preparing to resist in the courts the $1,000,000 raise of assessment in the business district which was made by the City Council as an offset to the $1,000,000 cut it made in the Contra Costa Water Company's franchise.

Among the taxpayers that made settlements to-day under protest was the Pacific Theological Seminary, which was represented by the law firm of Haven & Haven. Their protest brought out new points of attack upon the increased valuation. The reasons for protest as set forth in the communication to Tax Collector Taylor are as follows:

The undersigned protests against the payment of $100 of said amount on the ground that said amount as appearing on your bill is computed upon the basis of said property having assessed value of $45,000 and of the tax rate of $1.25 for $100 of assessed valuation; that said assessed value of $45,000 is that placed on said property by the City Council of Oakland; that the County Assessor of Alameda County assessed said property at $21,000; that the action of said City Council in placing an assessment of $45,000 upon said property was and is illegal and unauthorized and was and is excessive and discriminatory; that said tax rate of $1.25 for $100 of assessed valuation is illegal as to 15 per cent thereof, the same being the excess of such rate over $1 per $100 of assessed valuation, not including the portion of said rate levied for the purpose of paying bonds or in interest thereon.

In behalf of Mrs. Sarah M. McLean the law firm of Olney & Olney filed the following:

This payment is made under protest against the legality of the amount of tax appearing in your bill as follows:

1. Protest against the payment of $86.15 of said amount, on the ground that said amount, as appearing on your bill, is computed on the basis of said property having an assessed value of $20,000, and of the tax rate of $1.25 per $100 of assessed value; that the assessed value of $20,000 is that placed on said property by the City Council of the city of Oakland; that the County Assessor of Alameda County assessed said property at $8,000; that action of said City Council in placing an assessment of $20,000 upon said property was illegal and unauthorized and was and is excessive and discriminatory; that said tax rate of $1.25 per $100 of assessed valuation is illegal as to 15 per cent thereof, the same being the excess of such rate over $1 per $100 of assessed valuation, not including the portion of said rate levied for purpose of paying bonds or interest thereon.

Other protesting payers are Charlotte Playter and Mrs. Grace Playter Johnson, daughters of the late former Mayor E. W. Playter; E. B. Tutt; J. J. Warner, representing the Masonic Hall Association; Charles Camden, H. E. Clark and Sylvester Clark.

Company A, Fifth Regiment, of Oakland, Completes Preparations for Gathering of State's Defenders at Brilliant Function on Thanksgiving Eve.

COMMISSIONED AND NON-COMMISSIONED OFFICERS OF COMPANY A, FIFTH REGIMENT, N. G. C., WHO ARE MAKING ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE FORTY-FIRST ANNUAL REUNION AND BALL, TO BE GIVEN BY THE GUARDSMEN ON THANKSGIVING EVE.

OAKLAND, Nov. 23.—The Fifth Regiment Armory on Twelfth street has been converted into a wonderland of electrical beauty in preparation for the forty-first annual reunion and ball of Company A, Fifth Regiment, N. G. C., which will be held Thanksgiving eve. In point of originality and beauty the decorations surpass anything the company has heretofore attempted, and the affair has always been noted for the lavish display in the large ballroom.

The decorations have covered the walls and ceiling with a dainty latticework of ribbons studded with hundreds of incandescent globes in the national colors. In relief electrical pieces, scrolls, shields, stars and the like are set, and this forms the background for a series of illuminated arches stretched at intervals across the main hall, with scores of electric lights to gleam in harmony of colors from the graceful sweep of the arches.

At one end of the hall the bandstand has been erected over a flowing waterfall illuminated by electricity. The water dashes and leaps over a miniature precipice and disappears beneath a rockery, from the crevices of which darts excel anything they had before attempted.

More than 1500 electric lights have been turned in working out the elaborate scheme. The plan has been handled by Second Lieutenant F. W. Petersen, assisted by Quartermaster Sergeant M. Herman and other members of the company. It has been throughout a "labor of love." The members only wanted to excel anything they had before attempted. Besides the ballroom decorations the reception hall, parlors and dressing-rooms have been artistically decorated, the national colors and military emblems predominating. The affair is invitational, and a great demand for the necessary card exists.

The company keeps all of its entertainment within itself. The orchestra will be composed of its own members, fifteen in number, under the leadership of Edward Donaldson.

Preparations have been made to entertain 1000 guests during the evening. The programme of dances will be interspersed with other entertainment, and dainty refreshments will be served.

Work upon the plan for this year's reunion has been under way for two months.

Oakland Office San Francisco Call, 1118 Broadway, Nov. 23.—In an attempt to quicken a fire with coal oil at noon to-day, Mrs. Mary Heaney was so badly burned about the body that she cannot recover. Mrs. Heaney, whose home is at 1782 Atlantic avenue, thought to hurry along the noon-day meal by throwing coal oil, which she took from a gallon can, upon the flames in the stove. While thus engaged the flames burst out and caught upon the thin dress that she was wearing. In a moment her clothing was a mass of flames. She screamed and fought to put out the fire. Neighbors, answering the cries of agony, secured a blanket with which they enveloped the woman and soon smothered the flames.

At the Receiving Hospital, to which place Mrs. Heaney was removed as soon as possible, the physicians decided that she was too severely injured to survive the shock and wounds. The flesh of the back, face, chest and arms, was burned in many places to a crisp, searing such an extended area that it would be impossible to heal. Mrs. Heaney suffered greatly before operations were administered to her and told in fitful intervals of consciousness how the accident occurred.

While some of the neighbors were ministering to Mrs. Heaney, others were fighting the flames that had begun to consume her home. It was necessary at last to turn in an alarm to save the house from destruction.

Mrs. Heaney is the mother of two grown sons, one of whom, John Heaney, is in the employ of the railroad company, and the other is with the Western Union Telegraph Company. She is a widow and well-to-do.

PET RAT SPOILS

Gets Loose in the School-room and Is Hotly Pursued.

Oakland Office San Francisco Call, 1118 Broadway, Nov. 23.—An untoward accident broke up the class in nature study yesterday in Miss Rosa Ferguson's room in the Cole Grammar School. Miss Bertha Chapman, who supervises the department of nature study, instructed the pupils a day or two ago that they should each fetch a household pet to school on Friday in order to make studies of their peculiarities. When Miss Chapman called the class to attention in the afternoon she found her request had been taken literally. There were sufficient animals on hand to stock a Barnum annex.

In the midst of the studying something happened to start the girls to the high places and the boys upon a hot pursuit. By some unaccountable means a white rat that belongs to one of the boys got out of its cage. It was detected by a brindle cat, which gave it a run for its life. The proprietor of the white rat pursued the cat in an attempt to rescue the rodent. Stirred to fever heat by the excitement, a big Newfoundland dog joined in the race. Soon every boy in the room was doing his best to herd the rat into a corner. Teachers and girl pupils sought safety on the chairs. Not until the cat caught the rat was order restored.

DEATH ENSUES FROM GLANDERS

A Prominent Society Woman Is Mysteriously Stricken.

Scientists Are Baffled by the Case of Mrs. Bertha Martens.

Oakland Office San Francisco Call, 1118 Broadway, Nov. 23.—Under circumstances which have baffled the expert investigations of several physicians, Mrs. Bertha Martens, wife of D. Richard Martens, a prominent member of the German colony of this city, died at midnight at her residence, 903 Linden street, from glanders. In what manner the patient became infected with the disease the doctors have been unable to learn. The malady is one that rarely attacks human beings. Careful examination of the horses owned by the Martens has failed to disclose the slightest trace of the disease among them.

Mrs. Martens was stricken several days ago. Dr. J. P. Dunn was called to attend the suffering woman, only to have his suspicions immediately aroused concerning the nature of her affliction. That he might have absolute certainty in the diagnosis, several other expert microscopists and bacteriologists were summoned.

No hope could be given for the recovery of the patient, for there is no known remedy nor cure for glanders, either in the horse or in the human being. The doctors were constrained to tell the sorrowing family that the case was fatal, and only alleviating means to check the suffering as much as possible until death should call could be used.

The physicians who attended Mrs. Martens refused absolutely to discuss the case. The certificate, as signed by Dr. Dunn and recorded at the health office, shows "glanders" to have been the cause of death.

Because of the nature of the disease the funeral was held privately this afternoon, interment taking place in Mountain View Cemetery.

Mrs. Martens, nee Reichling, had lived in Oakland since her babyhood. She was a native of Volcano, Cal., 40 years of age. She returned only a short time ago from a tour of Europe. In social life she was very prominent. As an officer and active member of the German Ladies' Relief Society, Mrs. Martens was well known. The family are recipients of much sympathy from a wide circle of friends.
